

Infectious Disease Homeless System Response Plan

Addendum A 2021-2022 Winter Weather Response

This version is current as of 11/12/2021.

This will be a changing document based on circumstances and latest guidance from the CDC, Governor Beshear and local public health officials.

Background

Every year, the Lexington-Fayette County Homeless Response System meets and plans for all potential emergency shelter needs of those experiencing homelessness. This year, with the impact of the COVID-19 Infectious Disease Response, the system faced a major challenge.

In general, the system is facing two major barriers to accessing shelter:

1. Reduced capacity due to COVID-19 CDC restrictions.
2. Citizens fear of entering a congregated emergency shelter that could expose them to COVID-19.

Community response

GOAL: Work closely with the Lexington-Fayette Co. Health Dept., LFUCG Emergency Management, the Lexington Police Dept., the Lexington Fire Dept., and all community partners in order to follow guidance and instructions.

Emergency overnight shelters

Emergency night shelters welcome all eligible people during emergency winter weather including former residents under suspension for behavioral or programmatic reasons provided shelter has open space.

Exceptions may include individuals suspended for violence and decisions will be made case-by-case. The OHPI will collaborate with providers and other resources to ensure emergency shelter is available for anyone in need. You can contact the office at (859) 258-3105 or pruddick@lexingtonky.gov.

Community Action Council

Community Action Council operates the only family emergency shelter in Lexington. This is a scattered-site apartment model. Due to the design of this program, any overflow capacity will be referred to the Council's hotel program.

The Council will operate a scattered-site hotel emergency shelter program for the winter starting November 1. It will give priority to those unsheltered and medically vulnerable. Once those individuals have been moved into the hotel, unsheltered families will be prioritized next, and then unsheltered adults living in large encampments. Finally, those that are not able to access emergency overnight shelter at other locations will be prioritized last.

This additional capacity will decrease the strain on congregate shelters and provide a location for those medically vulnerable to practice Healthy at Home. All individuals will be provided basic needs, case management, permanent housing planning, and referral services while in the hotel.

This program will allow for the immediate safety of individuals while also allowing for individuals to either quarantine or receive a negative COVID-19 prior to entering the standard shelter. All individuals will be provided case management and referral services including offers of permanent housing while in the hotel.

Hope Center

During the pandemic, the Hope Center has had to reduce capacity in their shelter building to just 100 beds. The Hope Center has taken several unique steps to expand capacity while maintaining all CDC requirements to minimize the risk of COVID exposure.

The Hope Center has added sleeper trailers allowing for those individuals who are working to come and go without exposing individuals in the large congregate shelter to potential risk. The Hope Center will be utilizing areas within their building, like their basement, to add mats while still allowing for social distancing. All individuals will be provided case management and referral services including offers of permanent housing while in the shelter.

The Hope Center also added a temporary pre-fabricated building that will allow individuals to “come and go” or a “do drop by” type of emergency shelter or a warming shelter. This will be limited to 60 individuals that are able to just come for the night as they need, without having to comply with property restrictions and COVID-19 testing (unless they choose). Individuals within this warming shelter will be provided basic needs, but not case management or service referrals. If an individual would like to access services and offers of permanent housing, they are able to work with the intake coordinator at the Hope Center to comply with COVID-19 testing and quarantine so that they can come into the congregate shelter to access a case worker.

In order to provide this service, Lexington Rescue Mission is providing a scattered-site hotel overnight emergency shelter for those registered sex offenders that are not able to access the system's regular shelters. This program will allow for an additional 15 units in the homeless response system for the winter.

2021-2022 Winter Transportation and Street Outreach Services

Individuals and families without homes rarely have personal, reliable transportation. Many walk miles and miles a day just to access basic needs. With the weather turning colder, we recognize as a community that individuals that are already vulnerable are not able to walk those miles in the cold. We also recognize that some individuals do not have access to up-to-date weather reports to understand how cold it may become during the night. We also know that frost bite is the No. 1 discharge diagnosis to medical respite during the winter.

Due to these factors, the community partners operate two additional transportation programs. This year, the Hope Center will operate an additional street outreach team to provide on-the-street transportation and case management. Catholic Action Center will again utilize the Compassionate Caravan during extreme cold temperatures.
